Points of Interest

FORT GARRY GATE—Main Street.

The one great reminder that Winnipeg was once a trading post is Fort Garry Gate . . . All that was left even in 1890 of the Fort that was just built in 1822 and rebuilt in 1835. Fort Garry ran diagonally across Main Street, so it was demolished to make way for a direct route to what is now Fort Rouge and Norwood. This was when Louis Riel spread terror during his ill-fated rebellion in 1870.

Fort Garry Gate has its own park, and is a very pleasant little spot to rest during the finer weather days.

LOWER FORT GARRY—

Built by Governor Simpson in 1831-1839. This Fort is still intact, and is located a few miles down the Red River. It has been leased by the Manitoba Motor Club.
